Sunway students honoured

KOH CHUN GIAP, 20 emerged as the top student for the Sunway-Waikato University twinning programme for the Business of Management Studies degree course.

Koh, who has been scoring As throughout the programme is also active in co-curricular activities.

A former student of Maxwell Secondary School, Kuala Lumpur, Koh says the Waikato programme is unique as it includes industrial training.

Under the programme, students do paperwork for three months and also produce an investigative report as part of their practical training.

Meanwhile, Katina Tan Yee obtained the Best Academic Performance Award during the Sunway College's Australian Matrication Awards Night held recently.

Tan obtained the highest score in her combination of Accounting, Economics, History and Senior English subjects.

The Australian Matriculation Best Overall Student Award went to Chee Chern Shiung. He received the award for striking a balance between both Science and Humanities subjects.

Another student, Ong Ghim Chuan, received the Principal's Shield for his fine achievement in both academic and co-curricular activities.

Present at the ceremony were founder of Sunway College Tan Sri Dr Jeffrey Cheah, its director Lee Weng Keng, vice principal Elizabeth Lee and Norli Yusuf, acting head of Sunway Australian Matriculation programme.
